

Lab Object Passing

1. Create an Encapsulated class Point class with x and y as data members. Create two constructors and a function to move the point.

In the runner create an array of point objects of size 10. Initialize first five objects using default constructor and others using argument constructor.

Now set the Y coordinate of all default points to 19.

Move objects created with argument constructor by 3 and 4.